

Heathrow Express

design

Heathrow Express is the fastest, most frequent way to travel between Heathrow Airport and central London. With no traffic jams, taxi queues or stops to worry about, you can be in the centre of London, or right inside the airport, in just 15 minutes.

"Harp were selected for their knowledge and technical ability to supply displays for the rail environment having previously designed similar equipment for London Underground ESUBs project that is used to show line status. Our specific design had to be certificated as a pre-requisite before the displays could be deployed into the HEX network."

JC Decaux manages the 63 displays deployed in all the terminals at Heathrow including the new T5 terminal."
